Not many people may know about the Tower Club at Lebua Hotel in Bangkok, Thailand. Nor do they know about its cutting-edge restaurant Breeze, Bangkok’s highest open-air restaurant that specializes in award-winning Asian cuisine. Remember the rooftop scene in Hangover II? That’s the Tower Club at Lebua. And that is where Breeze is located.

Recently, I experienced a bit of Breeze for myself—not in Bangkok, mind you, but in New York City. Chef Sam Pang brought his cutting-edge Asian cuisine, right from his fifteenth-floor restaurant atop the Bangkok skyline, to the James Beard House in Manhattan’s Greenwich Village.

The five-course meal that ensued was exquisite:
- Ooong Tea–Smoked Duck Salad with Sake–Blueberry Jus
- Wok-Fried Lobster with Halifax Mui Choy and Hong Kong Kale
- Baked Gindara with Chinese Chives
- Braised Niuhuan Ranch Beef Short Loin with Ya’an Flowering Wild Pepper
- Mangoes and Sticky Rice

Every dish was exceptional in both presentation and flavor. The style Sam Pang presents is both traditional and modern—a cuisine stepping boldly toward the future, yet insistently linked to the past.

Though most of the world may only recognize the façade of Lebua’s Tower Club from its appearance in films, that’s merely a glimpse of the glory to be found at the hotel. Big things are happening there, and they’re not to be ignored. From world-renowned Mediterranean fine dining at Sirocco to diving on high at the 65th-floor Mezzakura to the innovative Sky Bar, Lebua is proving itself to be a paragon in the world of hospitality.

This New Year’s Eve, Lebua will be hosting the highest ball drop in the world—at a staggering 872 feet in the air. Guests can enjoy Sam Pang’s expertly crafted eight-course menu while perched above Bangkok’s phantasmagorical skyline, gazing down upon the verdant River of Kings, as fireworks explode all around, secure in the knowledge that any hangover will be handled nicely when washed away by one of the Sky Bar’s legendary HangoverTrinis.

World's Highest Ball Drop Puts Bangkok on World Map of New Year's Celebrations

November 20, 2014

On the 31st of December, the Bangkok Ball Drop at lebua will once again put Thailand's capital on the world map of New Year's Eve celebrations as the 7-foot Bangkok Ball drops 49 feet from above Sirocco, the world's highest alfresco restaurant.

Able to be seen for more than a mile across the city, the ball will be 873 feet in the air, making it the most visible icon in Bangkok. For the second consecutive year, the descent of the Bangkok Ball will be the city's first and most memorable sight of 2015 followed by an eye-popping fireworks display.

In addition to enjoying the best view of Bangkok's latest New Year's Eve phenomenon, the guests at lebua's four altitude-defying restaurants and bars — Sirocco, Mezzaluna, Breeze and Divi — will be treated to refined celebratory cuisine and a welcome reception of complimentary champagne with the visionary CEO of lebua Hotels & Resorts, Deepak Ohri.
